

It's a Dog's World...

Many of us are (or were) dog owners and could not imagine life without our canine companions. The things we do for our dogs and the money we spend on them would make some people crazy! How does the dog you own compare to your behavioral style??

Product of the Month

Time Mastery Profile:

The Time Mastery Profile® helps people assess their time-management effectiveness and create a personal plan for improving their skills in key areas. It will help individuals set priorities and manage time more effectively by evaluating their effectiveness in 12 critical areas.

D – Dominance

Oliver

Low maintenance and non-shed are a must for a “D’s” dog. No time for brushing, pampering or cleaning up. Dog will be sent away and returned perfectly trained and proud.

Best Friend: Boxer, German Shepherd, Maltese

i–influence

FiFi

An “i” will have the dog with bows in their fur and an outfit to match. Frequent trips to the dog park or an organized dog play group are a must! A birthday celebration complete with a doggie cake is not unusual.

Best Friend: Irish Setter, Poodle, Airdale Terrier

C – Conscientious

Max

Research was done to pick the “best” dog breed for their family. The dog’s food is one of the name brands that provides the most health benefits. Dog will be well trained and intelligent.

Best Friend: Brittany Spaniel, Weimaraner, Lab Retriever

S- Steadiness

Maggie

Routine is key. Dog is fed, walked and brushed daily. Canine is part of the family and jumps in the car wherever they go. Shots and vaccines are up to date and scheduled annually.

Best Friend: Standard Poodle, Lab Retriever, Golden Retriever
